

MONDAY

Birds chew
on the rind
of the garden.

A woman stitches
a tired shoe.
Sucking lemons

she spits
pips
into pots.

The old hill
hunched
over the end of the roses,

clambers
into cloud,

startling
the ill prepared
birds.