

SACRED SPACE

Opened within me is a vast expanse
A star filled desert sky
In which I am absorbed into the eternal;
A glimpse of dying.

In its depths it is quiet. A light burns.
I find myself in the presence
Of those connected to me deeply;
They whisper guidances.

I slide down into this sacred space
Early in the morning
Anointed by a blackbird singing
And the red sun rising.

Fears and hurts disperse,
Vain thoughts fade;
Anguish coils into air;
I am silenced by sanctity,

By the blue air of love
Breathing into me;
Absorbed into unity;
I AM what I AM.

