

THEY SCOURGED THE STREETS

They scourged the streets
for bread

and found none
in the lush dressed windows.

They wandered through food halls and perfumeries

haunted by the low soft voice
of a prophet;

*Why buy
what does not satisfy?*

Spoken through a window
of a dung flanked hut.

.