

UNION

Today
I drunk
drafts of water

like a river,
gulping
a stream.

Like one
who had not drunk
for days,

as the thin
breaking body
melts on my tongue,

parched land
quivers,
in new rain.