

VERONICA

Veronica came by her husbands bed
keeping vigil night after night.
Moistening his lips.

Holding his lifeless hand.
Whispering sweetness
into his dormant mind.

Week after week,
month after month
until he died.

Now Veronica stands
with the bloody print of love
tarnishing her face and hands.

